State of Antisemitism in America 2022 report

American Jewish Committee's annual State of Antisemitism in America 2022 report assesses and compares Jewish and general population perceptions of and experiences with antisemitism in the United States. Based on one of the largest-ever combined national surveys of American Jews and the U.S. general public, the report demonstrates the deeply disturbing impact that rising hatred of Jews has on America's Jewish community. The release of the data, from surveys done in Fall of 2022, comes shortly after the White House announced the creation of a new federal interagency group that will develop a national strategy to combat antisemitism.
